Computer and Mobile Device Security

Internet Security

Through the use of various techniques and technologies, fraudsters trick unsuspecting internet users into divulging personal and financial information.

Protecting Your Computer and Web-Enabled Devices

Internet banking provides convenient access to information and the ability to perform transactions from home, work or other locations. Users must be aware that when you communicate via the internet, other people and software can also communicate with your device. An inadequately protected device can be accessed by an unknown party or malicious software (malware) in a very short period of time, and without your knowledge.

To help reduce risk from damaging malware, we recommend diligent use of the following security practices:

Computer, Laptop, and Tablet

- Use a Firewall
- Install Security Patches
- Use Anti-Virus Software
- Use Anti-Spyware
- Choose Unique Password

Mobile Phones

- Protect Your Password
- Update Your Operating System
- Use Anti-Virus, Anti-Spyware, and Firewall Software
- Download Apps Only from Trusted Sources
- Avoid Connecting to Unknown or Non-Password Protected WI-FI Networks
- Avoid Activating Bluetooth in Crowded or Public Areas
